

APPLYYOURSELF®

ONLINE APPLICATION MANAGEMENT

ApplyYourself allows you to:

- Balance application management with key marketing activities to drive enrolment
- Centralise application processing, making it easier on your staff and your students
- Create, maintain, and access multiple applications to streamline applicant activities
- Integrate applicant data with your existing prospect system and update in real time for ultimate efficiency

Drive students to enrolment with cutting-edge application process management tools that streamline application processes and provide a first-class student experience.

Today's students want to easily apply for courses, and your staff want an easy way to process and move these students through the enrolment funnel. The online application process management system provides leading solutions for application management and recommendation management—as well as status, decision, and enrolment tools—to help you do just that.

Integrate Application Efforts with Your Strategic Enrolment Plan

Your online application system can be easily integrated with your recruitment and enrolment system, allowing you to be more competitive with unique data management and marketing features.

Streamline Your Application Processes

Whether you're already completely paperless, or want to combine your traditional methods with online efficiency, the online application management tools provide a centralised system that brings all of your elements together.
